PREFACE.

PREFACE.

THE Sixth Volume of the Lineage Book comprises the National Numbers 5001–6000, members entering the Society in the year 1894. This publication is becoming better understood, better appreciated by the Society and more widely known throughout the country. It has been fully demonstrated that the satisfactory editing of these records require not only interest in the subject, but untiring research, and this volume shows great advancement. The value of the work increases with its progress and its future now seems assured.

It is beyond question the duty of the Daughters of the American Revolution to cherish this publication, for after two years close application I feel convinced that these gathered facts, condensed as they are, will be a source of inspiration to patriotic endeavor through coming generations.

Gr.-granddaughter of Lewis Craig and Elizabeth Sanders, his wife; James Pattie and Ann Sanders, his wife.

Gr.-gr.-granddaughter of Tolliver Craig and Polly Hawkins, his wife.

Lewis Craig was a Baptist minister who suffered much for liberty of conscience in Virginia. Washington said they were the "Firm friends of civil liberty and the persevering promoters of our glorious revolution." In 1781 he led his congregation of over two hundred through the wilderness to Kentucky and it is known as "The Traveling Church."

Tolliver Craig was a soldier in the Virginia militia and a defender of Bryant's Station, when attacked by British under Caldwell, and Indians led by the infamous Simon Girty.

Polly Hawkins Craig was the oldest of the twenty women at Bryant's Station, August 15, 1782, who knowing that the Indians were in ambush near the spring, brought the water which made the defense of that post possible.

Ann Sanders carried water, moulded bullets and nursed the wounded at Bryant's Station. The Lexington Chapter, D. A. R., have immortalized these heroines by a memorial wall around the historic spring.

James Pattie was an officer in the Virginia militia, who emigrated to Kentucky in 1782. He was with the reinforcements that reached Blue Licks after the battle, but followed the victorious enemy across the Ohio.

James Johnston, convinced of the righteousness of the cause of the Colonies, resigned his commission as lieutenant in the British Army and served as chaplain of Virginia militia.
